CHICAGO (AP) - Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, a former university official and an ardent promoter of Krebiozen as a cancer treatment, says he wants an early trial so he can face his accusers.

Dr. Ivy, 71, internationally known physiologist, and three other persons pleaded innocent Wednesday to a 49-count federal indictment charging them with mail fraud, conspiracy, mislabeling and making false statements about Krebiozen.

"This is a new and interesting experience," Ivy said after the arraignment in U.S. District Trial was set to begin Jan. 11. and the court allowed the four defendants until Dec. 21 to file motions.

"It is not the first time that a scientist or a benefactor of mankind has suffered indignities for standing up to his convictions," Ivy told newsmen.

"I have evidence to prove that Krebiozen is a worthwhile drug in the treatment of cancer," he said. "I have reports from a thousand doctors showing its benefits on patients hopelessly afflicted with cancer.'

Dr. Ivy, now a professor of biochemistry at Roosevelt University, said he has no immediate plans other than continuing to work in his laboratory.

Dr. Ivy and a codefendant, Dr. William F. P. Phillips, 52, an associate of the Krebiozen Research Foundation, pleaded innocent before Judge Julius J.

Dr. Stevan Durovic, 59, a Yugoslavian, who developed Krebiozen, and his brother, Marko, 64, a lawyer, also pleaded inno-

With farm income steadily dropping, many farmers who in the past would have scoffed at the very idea of copying the strategy and discipline of organized labor now are listening attentively to the National Farmers

Organization. The ultimate aim of the N.F.O., according to an article in this week's Saturday Evening Post, is to grow strong enough to blanket the food processing industries with price-fixing contracts.

About 200,000 of the nation's 3,500,000 farmers have joined up. Others fiercely resist. There have been ugly incidents-and some deaths.

Will the N.F.O. work? Are U.S. farmers ready to be unionized?

Raps Warren Commission Slap At News

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) -Newspaper critics got a doublebarreled retort today before the 31st annual convention of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Sam Ragan of the Raleigh News and Observer and the Raliegh Times shot back at the Warren Commission, members of the bar, and those who didn't like coverage of the presidential Don Carter of the National Observer, armed with questionnaire replies from 70 editors, added more ammunition to campaign coverage detractors.

Ragan, president of the APME, gave his views in a general roundup of the news year; Carter presented a summary of views compiled by his campaign and election coverage commit-

Ragan called the last 12 months "the cruicible year of the American press.'

It started, he said, with the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and continued through the election.

Foremost among the problems, Ragan said, was coverage of the assassination. The Warren Commission said news personnel in Dallas, Tex., showed a "lack of self-discipline" and created "general disorder" in Dallas police headquarters. Ragan said the American press should have been commended rather than censured for its coverage of the assassination.

He said, however, that this doesn't mean "we should ignore a criticism voiced in the commission's report - the matter of mass coverage - or indeed, at times, mob coverage - of major news events.'

Ragan noted that an APME committee has been studying this and working with other organizations such as the American Society of Newspaper Edi-

Then he said: "Pool coverage seems to me to be the most practical answer at this time. In this consideration the committee will have to have the cooperation of the nonprint reporters and recorders, who more often than not make up the bulk of the mob on the scene and most readily lend validity to the charge of newsmen becoming newsmakers.

Carter's report to the APME was primarily one of compiling the views of other editors.

Noting that it had been a dull campaign, he said, "shorter campaigns would help, but as one friend said, better candidates is the real answer.

"As we did some soul-searching on the question of press fairness," Carter said, "and most of us feel that newspapers were eminently fair to both candidates during the campaign."

One reason for the record turnouts is balanced competition. Seventeen of the 24 league games have been decided by one touchdown plus a field goal, or less, with nine of these decided by four points or less. No season in league history has produced so many close games.

Rap Influx Of Migrant Labor Force

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Roman Catholic organization that fought against the foreign farm migrant program fears President Johnson will permit the continued influx of thousands of low-wage workers under the Immigration Act.

"It is now becoming apparent that the growers are determined to continue to demand and get the equivalent of a slave labor force," said the Rev. James L. Vizzard, S.J., chairman of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference.

"To me it is a profound embarrassment and humiliation that our federal government feels it is obliged to cooperate with them in this disgraceful venture," the Jesuit priest told a labor conference Tuesday.

Legislation to extend two laws permitting foreign laborers into the United States during harvest time was killed in Congress. The laws expire Dec. 31, and the Labor Department has scheduled public hearings to determine new rules for letting the workers in under the Immigration Act.

"South Midtown" Routing Gains Approving Nods

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)-The Missouri Highway Commission gave its approval Tuesday to the "South Midtown" routing for a freeway which would connect U.S. 71 at the south edge of Kansas City with a freeway loop encircling the downtown business district.

Also under consideration was a more westerly route which would use the abandoned rightof-way of the old trolley line through Country Club Plaza and out Wornall Road.

The Highway Commission said the 10.2 mile South Midtown route would cost almost $64 million, saving about two miles and almost $14.5 million.

Both routes would start south from the southeast corner of the downtown loop near 14th and Campbell. The South Midtown route would cross Troost near 22nd, the Paseo at 24th and Prospect near 50th.

At the south end, near 91st street, both routes would connect with a recently opened section of U.S. 71 built to interstate freeway standards. It skirts Hickman Mills, Grandview, and Belton and extends almost to the Cass County line. At the north end, the east and north sides of the downtown free way loop are in use and the south side is under construction.

The state's decision apparently leaves the next move up to Kansas City, which must pay about half the estimated $30 million needed for right-of-way under present highway financing arrangements.

Melvin J. Snider, chief engineer of the Highway Commission, indicated the state may have some construction money to put into the project in a year to 18 months.

Acquit Women On Charge Of Hiding Harrell

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)-A federal district court judge Tuesday acquitted two women of charges of harboring and concealing John Robert Harrell, a religious cult leader who jumped bail at East St. Louis, Ill., on Nov. 12, 1963.

The women freed are Mrs. Flora Rowan, 57, and her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Mae Payne, 24. members of the anti-communist cult. They were charged after Harrell was arrested in Arkansas Sept. 19, accused of harboring a Marine deserter, Dion Davis.

Judge J. Smith Henley said the women did not harbor or conceal Harrell as those terms are generally understood, although they knowingly participated in Harrell's plan to avoid detection-which involved living under an assumed name in Strawberry, Ark.

The judge said "There was nothing hidden or furtive about Harrell's movements in Arkansas, and he was never hidden, concealed or harbored by these defendants or anyone else.' Harrell was to have appeared for a hearing in East St. Louis on the charge that he harbored Davis at Louisville, Ill., where Harrell and a group of followers lived. Federal and Illinois officers stormed Harrell's barricaded home and arrested Davis.

The report also showed that more money is spent on national defense than on any other governmental function even when sevenue from all levels of govrnment is lumped together. Education takes the next largest bite out of the tax dollar.

In the year ended June 30, 1963, all governments took in about $181.2 billion, with 63.2 per cent going to the federal government, 18.1 per cent to the states and 18.7 per cent to local

However, on the expenditure side, the federal government spent 58.4 per cent, local government disbursed 25.5 per cent and state outlays represented 16.1 per cent. Most of the changes in the two sets of figures result from federal payments to the smaller government units for a variety of functions, and payments by states to local governments, mostly for public schools.

The report noted that tax collections by state and local governments per person varied widely among the states - from $140 in Alabama and $142 in South Carolina to $327 in New York and $319 in California. The hationwide average was $235 per capita

When all revenue collected by states and local governments is considered, Alaska has the highest figure at $391 while New York is second at $390 and California has $387. These figures include government profit from enterprises such as state-owned liquor stores and other income from transactions between public agencies and the public. The national average for all revenue is $287 per person.

Laos Appears Headed For More Strife

TOKYO (AP) - With the dry season setting in and its roads firming up again, Laos' internal strife appears headed for more fighting

Pathet Lao chieftain Prince Souphanouvong in a statement broadcast this week claimed "fierce fighting" already is raging and "a large-scale war is being expanded throughout

As usual, taking the role of the aggrieved party, the Communist leader charged that the Laotian army, with American support, had been attacking Pathet Lao-held areas.

And he said his half-brother. Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, "who has capitulated to and connived with the above acts of the United States and its lackeys must bear no small part of the responsibility.

"The situation in Laos, which has already been rendered serious by U.S. imperialism and its henchmen, has now become more dangerous," he said.

The Pathet Lao seemed to have been placed on the defensive since the Laotian army launched air bombings of Red positions last summer. This action saved the harassed neutralist army from destruction and at least temporarily turned the tide of the war.

The Pathet Lao radio frequently has broadcast protests against these air strikes and advances by the resurgent Laotian lative rush in this field as in the ernment and private economists are glad there hasn't been. Too type market crash.

Wastebasket Material...

As a group this country's newspapers try very hard to present the news in good balance. Generally they are credited with airing all sides of important issues.

Yet in this age rising clamor from extremists, many conscientious and conservative journals find themselves under attack. Schools, colleges and other disseminators of information also fall under this attack.

Invariably the complaint is: "They don't present OUR side."

Now, to the listener who did not know what the exeremists' stock in trade is, this complaint might have the ring of plausibility.

But a very great deal of what passes for "solid information" among the ultras is a tapestry of untruth, distortion and imagination.

Except as an oddity representing this kind of thinking, no newspaper could print such stuff without abandoning its standards of reliability

This was at the time Shadegg was ghost-writing Goldwater's book "The Conscience of a Conservative." Naturally, other Republicans have never liked the fact that money contributed for the re-election of all Republican senators apparently was used to boost the ambitions of one senator for President.

Known only to a few insiders, however, is the fact that the senator from Arizona

Mrs. O'Connor is the daughter of the late Senator George Malone, Republican of Nevada, and when reached by this column in Scottsdale, Arizona, she was as frank as she is charming. She readily admitted the shortage, said it was not $25,000 as reported, but about $30,000.

Friends and neighbors of Barry Goldwater were all rooting for him in Arizona, even if they didn't agree with him - chiefly because he's such a nice guy.

But one reason why he nearly lost his own state - his margin was 4,000 - was because the Latin-American vote deserted him in toto. The fact that Goldwater came out so strongly against civil rights had a lot to do with this, of course, but there was another important reason. Several weeks before the election President Johnson had appointed Raoul Castro as Ambassador to Salvador.

Raoul Castro, no relation to the Communist brother of Fidel Castro, was a Superior Court Judge of ability and great popularity among both Democrats and Republicans. Born in Mexico, he had come to Douglas, Arizona, to teach school and was fired during a McCarthy-type wave of super-Americanism solely because he was a Latin-

JFK'S Cow-Punching Career

There is one chapter in the life of the late President Kennedy that not many people know about: He once worked as a cowpuncher for a strong Goldwater supporter

In 1936, when the late President was only 18, Arthur Krock of the New York Times telephoned Jack Speiden, who operates a big cattle ranch near Tucson, and asked him if he could take the two eldest sons of Joseph P. Kennedy on as ranch hands for the summer.

"Whatever you pay them we'll reimburse," said Krock, who is a close friend of the elder Kennedy, "but give them a tough work-out." Speiden was glad to have Joe Junior and Jack Kennedy regardless of any financial arrangement. They arrived, two pale boys from Harvard, they left hard as rocks. They herded cattle, worked on the range, and there still stands on the Speiden ranch an adobe house built in part by the late President of the United States.

At that time Speiden had not become a Goldwaterite, nor had Jack Kennedy any idea of running for President. But later Speiden heard Goldwater speak, sought him out in a little cubby hole office in the Goldwater Department Store and urged him to get into politics. He has known and helped Goldwater ever since.

Kennedy, when he became President, knew this. But he never let it influence his attitude toward his former boss. He was so charming in his Christmas greetings that Mrs. Speiden once remarked: "I'm going to change my registration to Democratic. But she never did.

Once when Spieden was back in Washington for an Alfalfa Club dinner, he met the late President in a side room before the dinner started.

"Mr. President," he said, "when you get through with this job and want your old job back you can come back and be a cow-puncher."

This was some time before an assassin's bullet struck fown John F. Kennedy, and considerably after a Nazi fusilade of bullets had struck down the plane in which the late Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., was flying during the war. Both of the summer cowpunchers are gone, but the adobe house they built remains.

presented by Dr. Walter W. Heller, who just stepped out as chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, is two-fold: To help the pocketpinched and burdened states and to add more fuel to the national economy when the accelerating effects of this year's tax cut fades.

Most of the states with growing populations and painful education, welfare and urban problems, are prowling in every direction in a determined search for more money. State debt, according to Tax Foundation Inc., has more than quadrupled since 1950, rising from $5 billion to $23 billion at the end of fiscal 1963.

Thirty-five of the 47 state legislatures meeting last year acted to increase revenues — by enacting new taxes, raising rates or broadening the bases.

So where to turn? It was Heller who sold the Kennedy-Johnson administration on the idea that taxes can be a drag on the economy even though they weren't high enough to balance the budget, and that a reduction would stimulate business, bring in more revenue and eventually balance the budget.

Arguing from this thesis, he proposed that Uncle Sam automatically return to the states each year a fixed percentage of the income tax collections to do with as each state saw fit.

This, it was contended, would help state and local governments with their massive financial troubles without Washington getting involved more deeply and would also put the money to work in the economy.

But there's a rub. Many in Washington question the idea of turning over federal funds without any strings - without thusand-so directions on how the money should be spent.

There are a host of other problems. One that could set off a turmoil in Congress is how the money should be cut up. On a strictly per capita basis, where the biggest states would get the biggest share, or should there be a distinction in allocation between the relatively rich and relatively poor states?

All in all, this could be the most controversial of all the plans presented to the President for charting the course of his administration.

DEAR POLLY - Had you ever thought of making a quilt with all those discarded nylon hose? Cut percale, or any desired fabric, into five inch squares. Sew two together as you would make a pillow case with one end open. Gather or roll a nylon stocking, foot and all, as if you were going to put it on. Stuff it into the little pillowcase, turn in the raw edges at the open end and sew shut with blind stitches. Put a tie of yarn in the exact center so that the stocking ring will not slide around. Place these puffy cases side by side and stitch them together to make your quilt the desired size. The tops could be feather stitched or embroidered for a decorative touch if you like. A full size quilt will require about 10 yards of material. - MRS. M. R. McS.

to her hair spray. — R. D. M. DEAR POLLY — I feel I must share the fantastically good luck I have just had with a homey experiment. I have a multicolored cut velvet purse (the type that has been so popular the past few years) that went with anything and was used so often that it was dingy from dust and moisture and oil from the hands.

Remembering that my mother often used cornmeal as a cleanser, I put the purse in a big paper bag, sprinkled about half a cup of cornmeal over it, folded the top of the bag over several times and shook vigorously. The purse was completely covered with the meal when removed from the bag. A brisk whisking with a clean vegetable brush soon removed the meal. This was done out-of-doors so as not to get meal all over the house. The colors are vivid and bright again and even the metal top looks better. Some of the meal had sifted inside the bag so I wiped it out with a piece of slightly moist turkish toweling. Usually my purses can stand a good house cleaning anyway. My old purse is now elevated from everyday use to "Sunday-go - to-meeting" status. - MYRTLE
